

Public Outreach and Educational Programming from Interpret Site L.L.C.

Using the scientific skills of "Observation and Inference" we bring archaeological practices to life using interactive hands-on activities.

Fun Interactive Presentations/Speaking Engagements/Training/ Workshops/Fairs Etc.

We can bring educational use collections, worksheets and presentations to your schools, learning centers, training sessions, conferences, meetings, community events, fairs etc.

An Intrigue of the Past

We use proven techniques originally developed by the Bureau of Land Management to stimulate discussion and provocation about the human past. We can also conduct engaging archaeology orientation and resource driven seminars with teachers, managers and volunteers.

Children and adults learn best when we compare and contrast familiar items found in today's world with those found from the past. We stress these connections making the past more relevant and relatable.

Our Aim

We aim to make the science of archaeology accessible to everyone so that archaeological resources will be preserved for future generations.

Many Educational Tie- ins/Building Critical Learning Skills

Interpret Site L.L.C. can tailor presentations to specific areas or regions and tie-in different educational subjects such as math, science, geography etc. Archaeology is a subject that touches and involves many other disciplines. Due to the nature of archaeological investigations this makes it ideal to develop critical thinking skills. This life-long skill set will help all of us navigate the world around us.
