Company Overview

Interpret Site L.L.C. was established in 2023 by Founder C.E.O. Todd Christopher McMahon after thirty years of dedicated public service as a professional archaeologist working for the State of Colorado.

Interpret Site L.L.C. provides two key services, one related to archaeological collections care and management, from governing documents to re-housing care, exhibition and other forms of public engagement. The other service involves interpretive planning for historic or archaeological sites, museums, visitor centers, wayside signage etc. Interpret Site L.L.C. also provides educational training/speaking engagements with audience participation or for a public fair or school booth table station.

We pride ourselves on the following:

- Following industry best standards in collections care and practices for archaeology and historic collections.
- Incorporating international standard Interpretive Planning techniques.
- Incorporating and involving descendant communities in interpretation.
- Providing and creating effective thematic messaging with interpretation.
- Using technology effectively to engage the public about our history.

We are a small firm with big capabilities that works to address the needs of our clients.

We understand what you want to accomplish, and we want to be the trusted team partner to help you achieve your management goals.

Gratefully,

Todd Christopher McMahon

Founder/C.E.O.

CAGE: 9KTQ3 UEID: UVPCJX6GLE21

Our aim is to achieve maximum public benefit to provide information, knowledge, and insight into the human past while honoring and consulting with descendant communities.

We have developing an integrated interpretive plan for the Senac pre-contact local historic landmark archaeology site. The plan involved staff team planning, and appropriate Native American consultation.. The plan also included wayside signage, wayfinding elements, a small indoor exhibit, and other educational media. The site aims to be a place to highlight and celebrate the long history of Native American heritage within the City. In addition, we have provided interpretive planning services for the Thunder Tree - Sand Creek Lateral of the Highline Canal Cultural Heritage Site in Del Mar Park, Aurora.

Tread of Pioneers MUSEUM

The Tread of Pioneers Museum in Steamboat Springs has a unique collection of historic Native American Southwest artifacts. The majority of the historic Native American artifacts comprise the H.B. Pleasant collection. The collection also contains photogravures taken by the well-known early twentieth century Native American photographer Edward S. Curtis. The Museum contacted Interpret Site L.L.C. in 2023 to propose a plan to re-imagine the Native Arts exhibit space for permanent display of the collection using interpretive techniques and to facilitate indigenous consultation to provide appropriate cultural information, exchange and care.

Professional Qualifications Statement

Todd Christopher McMahon, CIP, Founder and CEO of Interpret Site L.L.C. was a Staff Archaeologist and the Colorado State Curation Coordinator at History Colorado (Office of the State Archaeologist, State Historic Preservation Office). Todd McMahon retired from History Colorado in December 2022 after 30 years of public service at this institution. Todd formally managed and established the State-

Approved Museums and Curatorial Repositories Program, a statewide network of local museums and institutions that hold artifacts and fossil collections in-trust for the State of Colorado. In that role, he was also a member of the Cultural Historical Resource Task Force (CHR) and supported these institutions when dealing with disaster threats to their collections. Prior to that, in addition to other duties, he managed and coordinated the State-wide Archaeology and Historic Preservation Week events and mini-event grant program after receiving a multi-year State Historical Fund grant. Todd also has extensive experience using geographical information systems, site archaeological data, and as a Section 106/Section 110 National Historic Preservation Act and State Register of Historic Places compliance reviewer. He also holds research interests in the Formative Period in west-central Colorado, Peruvian archaeology, Front-range archaeology, Hawai'ian archaeology and the prehistoric North American four-corner's area.

Todd McMahon has over 30 years of employment as a professional archaeologist that includes over 10 years of work authoring the legal State standards, rules and guidelines as well as successful completion of inter-agency co-operative agreements for collections care and curation. Through authoring rules, publications, training presentations and direct collections care work, professional service, field and laboratory work Todd meets the Secretary of the Interior (SOI) standards for Curation (Curator). Todd McMahon is also a Certified Interpretive Planner as recognized by the National Association For Interpretation. As a Staff member of History Colorado, Todd also led the development of three past archaeology exhibits (See Todd's Portfolio on the Interpret Site website).

Todd is a 4th generation Colorado native, married with three children and has actively served on many educational, neighborhood, archaeology and historic preservation committees and boards. Todd also currently serves as the Chair of the Aurora Historic Preservation Commission, a member of the Society for American Archaeology's Excellence in Public Education Awards Committee and a member of the National Association for Interpretation.
